

To rescue and reunite...

Over 1500 young and baby birds come into the care of the NATF Inc. Hunter Wildlife Rescue each year. Many are not injured and are picked up by well meaning members of the public. If you find a baby bird and it is not injured, see if you can give it the best chance of survival by keeping it with its parents. Here are some hints on how you can help.

A baby bird's best chance for survival is its parents

Or call NATF Inc. Hunter Wildlife Rescue...

When the baby bird

- has an obvious injury...
- is lying on its side and is floppy, has a droopy wing or limps...
- has been caught by a cat or dog...
- has a dead parent bird nearby...
- has fallen from a hollow
- has no feathers...

In the meantime, keep the baby bird warm and quiet.

24 HR RESCUE HOTLINE
0418 628 483
0418 NATIVE

Native Animal Trust Fund Inc.
HUNTER
WILDLIFE
RESCUE

In any year the NATF Inc.
Hunter Wildlife Rescue volunteers respond to over 13,000 calls for advice and assistance to our local wildlife.

For further information, visit our website
www.hunterwildlife.org.au

HELP SUPPORT
HUNTER WILDLIFE
Send your tax deductible donation to:

Friends of NATF Inc. Hunter Wildlife Rescue
PO Box 1052, TORONTO NSW 2283
or donate online at www.hunterwildlife.org.au

Proudly supported by

FOUND A BABY BIRD?

Learn how you can help keep baby birds with their parents

A baby bird's best chance for survival is its parents

Nestling Satin Bowerbird

Giving Wildlife a Second Chance

Native Animal Trust Fund Inc.
HUNTER
WILDLIFE
RESCUE